Admissions Policies

--Policies for Selecting and Admitting Students--

(1) Admissions Policy

The School seeks to enroll students with essential skills in language and problem analysis, which will enable them to develop into economics experts who are highly skilled in policy advocacy, and who possess an outstanding sense of ethics.

(2) Selection Policy

The School selects applicants who have sufficient foundational knowledge of their field of study, as well as proficiency in English, a mindset of intellectual inquiry in economics, and awareness of the issues affecting economies and societies.

If an applicant is applying for a program that requires a foreign language examination, the applicant will be required to submit documents that demonstrate their English-language proficiency. The applicant will then be assessed in terms of their essential problem analysis skills and other related qualities based on an examination and interview conducted by the department. If an applicant is applying for a program that does not require a foreign language examination, the applicant's English-language proficiency, problem analysis skills, and other related qualities will be assessed through an interview.

As an exception, if you are involved in a fusion area with a science field, please follow the procedures below.

In November 2021, in accordance with the clarification of the scope of control for “deemed exports” under the Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Act (“FEFTA”), some provision of sensitive technology to faculty members and students by universities and research institutions has become subject to control under the FEFTA.

Consistently with this change, when applying to study at the University, students will be required to submit a “Declaration of applicable specific categories” based on the “Flowchart for determining applicable specific categories”. In addition, submitting a “Letter of confirmation” may be required at the time of acceptance.
